

This map illustrates the Marguerite-Bourgeoys neighborhood in Montreal, Quebec. The area is bounded by the Autoroute 40 to the north, the Autoroute 20 to the south, and the Saint-Charles (5) boulevard to the west. The eastern boundary is marked by the 'Limites municipales' of the Pointe-Claire and Donat municipalities. The map shows a dense network of residential streets, including major thoroughfares like Avenue de la Pointe-Claire, Avenue de la Roche, and Avenue de la Rivière. Key landmarks include the Club de golf de Beaconsfield, the Club de golf de Beconsfield, and the Marguerite-Bourgeoys school, which is highlighted with a red square. The map also shows the proximity to Lac Saint-Louis and the city of Pointe-Claire. A legend in the bottom right corner identifies symbols for schools (red square), cities (grey outline), railways (orange line with cross-ticks), and energy lines (black dashed line with dots).
